

Sips Eco Panels: Case Study

The Experience

"I wanted a highly energy efficient bungalow and that was why I chose Sips Eco Panels. The design team were really adept at incorporating my whims and suggestions.

Once the slab was completed, the bungalow was erected in 8 and a half working days. It was brilliant. The project went amazingly smoothly and we had lots of fun and laughs along the way. My project management team performed admirably and got things sorted promptly. That was a great weight from my shoulders.

I would certainly recommend Sips Eco Panels for many reasons; one being the ease of erecting my build in such a short time.

The fantastic thing that I like the most though is that the SIPs panels keep the whole building, including the attic area, all at a moderate, even temperature, whatever the temperature outside."
